

Reading for the joy of it!

The National Reading Campaign presents:

An evening to ask the question:

Has our obsession with literacy scores taken the joy out of reading?

Tuesday, January 18th, 7 to 9 p.m. OISE Library, at the University of Toronto

Find out about:

- a school system in China with few text books and a reading club in every class
- a new magazine in Africa that is engaging over 80,000 new teenage readers
- a new competition in Ontario high schools that is bringing back the joy and fun of poetry
- how to engage young people in reading for pleasure, for enrichment and for citizen engagement.

Click here for more information about the speakers and the three programs.

Admission is free. OISE/UT Library, 252 Bloor Street West (St. George Subway Station)

For more information about this event please call People for Education at 416-534-0100 or Patsy Aldana, Publisher of Greenwood Books at 416 363 4343 x 230

Click here to find out more about the National Reading Campaign and the National Reading Summit to be held in Montreal January 20th and 21st.

Patsy Aldana

Co-Chair of the National Reading Campaign, Publisher Greenwood Books